Denial letters include the following information:

- The type of benefit(s) denied;
- The effective date of the denial.
- The reasons for the denial. When the denial is because the person's income or resources are over the limits, the notice must show how the income or resources were calculated.
- The legal references that support the denial;
- The date by which a fair hearing must be requested; and
- If the application was referred to the Federally Facilitated Marketplace for a decision on other insurance affordability programs, an explanation of the referral.

SOMETIMES A MANUAL NOTICE IS NEEDED. SEE TYPES OF MANUAL NOTICES FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.
